College of Agriculture Baramati – AIT, Bangkok, Thailand

The proposed Masters degree Program in Agribusiness Management to be launched in College of Agriculture (hereinafter CoA), Baramati in collaboration with Asian Institute of Technology (hereinafter AIT), Thailand in March 2016.

Following are some pertinent facts related to the proposed program:

Model:

Structure of the program is based on the UBMP model as approved by the AIT's Academic Senate and MPKV, Rahuri's executive council and MCAER, Pune.

CoA will offer Bachelors degree (in their respective field) upon completion of CoA's academic requirement at the end of 4th year; whereas, AIT will offer its Masters degree (Masters in Agribusiness Management) upon completion of AIT's academic requirement at the end of the 5th year.

Eligibility:

Students of Government and private colleges from all over state those have admitted for any UG programme through MCAER are eligible for this Masters programme.

Study Plan:

Total credit requirement for the Masters degree under this remains the same as that of Regular AIT Masters degree in Agribusiness Management (SERD) (26 Cr Course + 22 Cr Thesis = 48 Cr). AIT Faculty will be responsible for AIT courses irrespective of the place of offering; i.e. AIT Faculty will travel to Baramati during summer to teach AIT's courses. The overall frame work of the program is given below.

Schematic of academic plan on the timeline

Fee Structure:

As the two degrees are totally independent of each other, College of Agriculture continues to charge the students at their fee structure. Below is the fee that the master's student will need to pay at AIT, Bangkok

Tuition Fee: USD 17,000

At the time of admission (II/III year) = 50%

Before going to AIT (IV year) = 50%

Why Masters at Baramati

There may be following reasons that could be cited in favor of such model for offering the Agribusiness Management Masters degree:

- Accelerated graduation in condensed duration [60~64 months]
- International exposure to diversified areas of excellence
- Interaction with world class faculties/scientists during the entire program
- Association with AIT's widely-known brand name
- No additional entrance examination for Masters degree
- A doorway to furtherance [Higher studies/Jobs]
- Economical compared to other available alternatives including individual degree programs
- Savings of one year expenses and ready for job almost an year earlier
